March 2nd is Dr. Seuss’ Birthday!

Welcome to the Who-ville Café!
Consider offering these Foods with Moods

- Cat’s Hat Cheese Sticks (decorate cheese stick wrapper to look like the cat’s hat)
- One Fish, Two Fish (fish crackers)
- Cat’s Hat Strawberries and Bananas (layer banana slice and strawberries to resemble the cat’s hat)
- Green Eggs and Ham (scrambled eggs with spinach and ham)
- 10 Apples Up on Top (apples)
- Hop on Pop Corn (corn)
- Hop on Pop Corn Chicken (chicken)
- Go (hot) Dogs, Go! (hot dogs)
- Take a Dip on a Chip (nachos)
- Fish in a Dish (fish sticks)
- One Fish, Two Fish, this Yogurt Pack has Your Fish (yogurt pack with fish crackers)
- Poodles with Noodles (pasta dish)
- Truffula Fruit (fruit)
- Dr. Seuss’ A-B-Cereal (cereal)

WHO wouldn’t love a bulletin board or sign with a message like these?

You have brains in your head.
You have feet in your shoes.
You can steer yourself in any direction you choose.

-Dr. Seuss

So point your feet to the school café
where great nutrition you’ll find each day!

I have a hunch you’ll enjoy a scrumptious lunch!

Books & Breakfast
We like books a WAFFLE-lot.
Invite parents to have breakfast in the cafeteria and encourage them to read while dining with their child. Consider having middle and/or high school students come to the elementary school cafeteria to eat with and read to students.

Cafeteria Managers, Media Specialists, English Language Arts teachers, and other educators can work together and to make the event a success.

Don’t forget about all the great food themed books that are available.

Students Get Seuss’d
Have students complete this open-ended writing.

I do not like green eggs and ham!
I do not like them, Sam I am!
But I would eat __________ on a __________.
And I would eat __________ on a __________.
